NED'S POINT LIGHT - Ascending Buzzard's bay, six miles to the northward, we arrive at the retired little harbor of Metapoisett, where stands Ned's Point light. This light has recently been erected, and consists of eleven lamps, with thirteen-and-a-half-inch reflectors--six in the lower, and five in the upper tier. The bay is here about seven miles wide. Three miles to the northward stands Bird Island light; the lights down the bay have been stated. Much of this navigation is aided by Nobsque light, which, though standing on Vineyard sound, is seen from the bay. Metapoiset is a place of little or no resort, except for its own trade, which is small; consequently, there are many nights when a light is of no use whatever in this harbor; yet we find more lamps here than in three-fourths of the light-houses in the district. I have elsewhere remarked, that a single common lantern, sufficiently elevated, would answer all the purposes of this navigation; whereas, now, between three and four hundred gallons of oil a year are being consumed. The lamps are so arranged that three of them are reflecting their light to no useful purpose towards the interior.

I recommend that seven of these lamps be suppressed, and that the remaining four be compactly arranged, so as to show the entrance to the harbor. There can be no doubt of the utility of the light, as indeed, all lights known to the pilot are useful to him; but that the nature of the navigation, or the interest of commerce, justify or require a light of the present magnitude, is a question which does not admit of argument. The difference in the expense of the two lights will be $251.13 a year. The tower and dwelling here are of stone and, as was remarked, have recently been erected. The keeper informs me that, in the late storm, both buildings leaked in all directions. The unskillfulness of the work extended to the lanterns, the dome of which likewise leaked, rendering it prudent for the keeper to remain by the lamps during the rain, lest the light should become extinguished. I removed the surface of the mortar or cement, in several places, and found the stone to be laid in what appeared to be very little more than mere sand. The glazing of the lantern was to have been of Boston double-crown glass, but evidently glass of the thinnest kind has been used, the quality of which is nothing more than ordinary. I found the lantern to be only five feet eight inches high, which is too low, again, for the convenience of the keeper with his hat on. The sash-bars, however, whether intentionally or not, were less objectionable, being only three-quarters of an inch wide, and yet abundantly stout.

The shoalness of the navigation here renders necessary a multiplicity of buoys; accordingly, there are no less than eight belonging to this harbor.

BIRD ISLAND LIGHT - This light is nearly at the very head of Buzzard's bay, and, being near the centre of the bay, is seen by all vessels ascending it from the time they are abreast of Dumpling rock and Clark's Point lights. It is a revolving light, precisely like the one at Gay head. The reflectors have been much injured by the lamps, and the frame of the clock-work and of the lantern are suffering for the want of paint.

I can see no reason why this should be a revolving light. Had I found Clark's Point light so near to Dumpling Rock light, revolving, I should not have been surprised; but, except since Ned's Point light has been erected, it was not possible for Bird Island light to be taken for any other, standing as it does, at the head of the navigation, aloof from all other lights. As however, it has been thought advisable to have it readily distinguishable, I now recommend that it be converted from a revolving white to a fixed red light, to consist of 6 instead of 10 lamps; the lamps to be arranged in a circular form, to suit the surrounding navigation; and the reflectors to be laid aside, so as to permit the light of all the lamps to be seen from every point of the compass. This will make a difference in the expense of the light of $143.50 a year, which may as well as not be saved to the public, for, there being no other red light in the bay, it never can be mistaken, and, requiring not to be seen more than 6 or 8 miles, at farthest, it will always be sure to afford light to that navigation.

The keeper of this light informs me that the head of this bay is always frozen over for long periods during the winter, and that no instructions have ever been given to extinguish the light during such periods.

This light is 30 feet above the level of the sea, in a stone tower 25 feet high. The dwelling is also of stone, and requires some slight repairs in the fire-place and kitchen ceiling.

I have now to remark of the buoys in this bay, that there are 50 in addition to those already enumerated, most of which are in the shoal navigation above this light. I examined them, and found that, though numerous, they are needed, and to dispense with any of them would be to sacrifice the interests of commerce.

At the entrance to this bay there are some very dangerous rocks, called the Old Cock and Hen and Chickens. The Old Cock lies about two miles from Gooseberry neck, on the western side of the bay, and is in the immediate track of a large and increasing trade. I cannot doubt that Government will soon see the propriety of erecting a light-house on this rock.

SQUARE DANCES ON WHARF TO CELEBRATE 35th ANNIVERSARY-JULY 21

Ronald Jensen, coordinator of the town Square Dance Committee, last Tuesday extended an invitation to the Board of Selectmen to attend the July 21 Square Dance on the wharf to accept a plaque celebrating 35 years of the annual Saturday night event. All Selectmen plan to attend.

Jensen said the 35th celebration will be in conjunction with the Harbor Days celebration. He added that Dick Ledger, who was elected into the New England Square Dance Hall of Fame, will be the caller.

Jensen also noted the first square dance of the season will be on June 30th.

Selectman Frank Suzan noted that the Mattapoisett Square Dances were featured in a National Geographic several years ago. Jensend commented that there is no place in the country that has had square dances outdoors for so long a period of time as has Mattapoisett.

The square dances remain active because of the cooperation of various organizations in town who sponsor one dance each week during the summer. Many dancers come from as far away as Connecticut and Maine to par-court hearing that he was in fact paying for the use of the mooring.

"As I read the cease and desist order, it required that winter sticks be placed on all moorings in question until a final resolve has been accomplished. I would like the board to enforce that cease and desist order by whatever means available."

A second letter, from Thomas J. Tyson, 7 Noyes Avenue, stressed his opposition to the marina. He said he feels that the congestion and traffic would present a safety hazard to the children in the area, to say nothing of the immense change this will bring out in the entire area. Tyson also said he hoped other neighbors would come forward and make their views known.

Selectmen agreed to have Harbormaster Lloyd Haskell check the boats moored off the Mansfield property.

APPROVED THE REQUEST of Susan Todd, 6 North Street, to use the Town Beach parking lot on May 29th. At that time, the Todds, who live across the street from the beach, will be holding a graduation party. A police officer will be hired for the parking area.

Family Fun Day at O.C.

OLD COLONY FUND-RAISER

The third annual Old Colony Regional Vocational Technical High School fund-raiser will be held from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Sunday, June 10th, and it promises to be the best yet. Once again, representatives of the leading area Auto Clubs will participate in an Antique Auto Show. Here's a chance to get a close look at some beautiful antique cars.

Also, for the first time, Old Colony will host a 10 km (6.2 miles) Road Race (for runners, not antique autos). There will be four divisions: 18 and under, 19-39 (Open), 40-49 (Master), and 50 plus (Senior). The race will begin at 12 noon at the Rochester Memorial School and will finish at Old Colony. Trophies will be awarded to the top three finishers in the 18 and under and Open divisions. One trophy will go to the top finisher in the Master and Senior divisions. Registration will take place until 11 a.m. the day of the race.

Fun and games will be provided to keep children of all ages busy. Food will be available to keep everyone happy. On the menu this year will be chowder, stuffed quahogs, hamburgers, hot dogs, and soft drinks.

The date is Sunday, June 10th, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The place is Old Colony Regional Vocational Technical High School on North Avenue in Rochester. Bring the whole family and help support vocational education in our area.

FOLLOW THE LEADER - MEET A LEADER

On Friday, May 18th, fourth grade students from Old Hammondtown School followed their teacher, Miss Suellen Aiken, on a walking field trip to their Town Hall. Selectman John DeCosta met them at the steps and gave the class a warm welcome. He guided them upstairs to the Conference Room where he presented a lecture on local government and the duties of the Selectmen. The students were excited to learn it was the first time ever that a class has been held in the Conference Room.

Having spent a great deal of time in their own classroom back at O.H.S. studying Federal, State, and Local forms of government and having already heard much about the Town Hall and the kind and helpful people there from three of their classmates (Ethan K[redacted], Jennifer Newell, and Ethan Tho[redacted] had made a similar visit earlier i[redacted], the class was anxious to experi[redacted]gs firsthand.

They were lucky enough to be [redacted] a tour of all the offices in the [redacted] and they were delighted to each rec[redacted] stu-

Once back at school the entire class wrote thank you notes to Selectman DeCosta and the other town employees who were all so considerate in order to show their sincere appreciation for such an informative and fun morning.

Former Director of the FBI

A GEMPRINT is a photo fingerprint of your diamond using the latest laser technology. A copy of your diamond's distinctively unique fingerprint is permanently filed with the Gemprint Central Registry, as a referral source to law enforcement agencies should it be lost or stolen.

In less than a minute, we can give you permanent protection for your investment. As Mr. Kelley says — it makes good sense!

We include a Gemprint registration certificate with the sale of any ¼ carat diamond or larger.

and the Plymouth office of BayBanks United, PCWT now has a home base from which to extend its efforts at a critical moment in the history of this rapidly developing region. PCWT is a non-profit land trust, with membership open to anyone interested in setting aside more conservation land now, while it still exists. The mailing address is State Road, RFD 8, Plymouth, MA. 02360.

Opening this home base became possible recently, when PCWT received a generous grant from the Helen S. Anderson Charitable Trust of Abington. In making the award, Trustee Eric R. Anderson, II wrote that he considers the Plymouth County Wildlands Trust "not only worthwhile but a necessary voice in the planning and development of our area." Mr. Anderson is President of the Anderson Insulation Company of Abington. The Anderson Charitable Trust contributes to community life in the region by supporting the work of local non-profit groups.

PCWT, which has nearly 300 members, is run by volunteers from more than 9 towns in southeastern Massachusetts. It does not employ paid staff. The office will be used by the volunteers to plan for the care of 800 acres of conservation land which PCWT now owns on 16 preserves in Bourne, Duxbury, Kingston, Marshfield, Middleboro, Plymouth, Rochester and Wareham. PCWT will also continue working to acquire more land for the public benefit. Every year PCWT offers area residents a variety of programs designed to illustrate the value and pleasure of saving as much open space as we can. For example, on April 21, over forty people joined a bicycle trip through the pine barrens of Myles Standish State Forest under the leadership of PCWT naturalist Mario DiGregorio. A May canoe trip on the Nemasket River will be led by Kathleen S. Anderson, Past President of PCWT. A popular program last November was on "The Flowering of New England", a colorful slide show with music and live narration. Guided walks with other local naturalists and geologists like Jeffrey Benoit, David Clapp, Wayne Petersen, Bruce Sorrie and Reed Stewart are also offered at PCWT preserves and other locations.
